ABOUT

Olga grew up in Ukraine where she fell in love with fashion as a child, though she wasn't always able to express that love. As she grew older, she knew she needed to be able to express herself and pursue her passion fully, so she followed her dreams and moved to New York City. New York City provided the environment for Olga to be bold and expressive with her style. Here, Olga has finally been able to live out her personal motto: art means freedom.
